A post pandemic world
By MM

In other world where wearing masks, washing hands and waiting 6 feet apart it is a relief, with the vaccines we can sigh a breath of relief.
What is "Normalcy"? In the world as it is, where things are opening up, we can regain a "sense of order". Maybe soon this virus shall be contained and we can get back a sense of normalcy.

A new Era of Threshold after a year of COVID-19
By Anonymous

Now we are in limbo sitting at home for a year and a half. What did I do? I sat a home and watched TV with my house mates and stayed sedimentary and awaited the rejoining of our Threshold family. The hours passed slowly not quickly as planned. I still have Dr Visits at home and one thing we all did a lot of soul searching. I worked on my writing, art skills and learned a lot more about myself and others that are less fortunate. Now since we returned, I am glad to see my compadres and friends, and helping others as well as ourselves.

Reopening By WU

Today is the day that Threshold has reopened. I have been waiting for this day for a long time. But it has not been a complete reopening as of yet. Each member of Threshold has been designated one day of the week to attend and for me that is Tuesday. The Garden has been started and I am, very much interested in what has been planted so far which includes Tomato's, eggplant and bell peppers.

A diary in the note of a day at Threshold. By Anonymous

We say please and ok to have it our own way. Because today is my special birthday and now I celebrate with a Hershey's candy bar and a card with no sorrows about it. We cheered Threshold is just here and now the diary of us all beginnings just in our own way of a clear mind, body and soul intertwined. We say the diary begins with us all and the months are almost turning into fall. Where did the summer go? COVID-19 took our summer in the under toe. In all today is essential with all the puns of work no quirks just ot say a diary in the day of Threshold is a hole in one.

The relationship you have with yourself. By JW

I believe in keep and being respectable with other and keeping up with the reading class, watch my eating habits and try to lose some weight and more exercise like walking to the store.

RR asks "How does it feel to be back at Threshold?"

Great
I like it Really Good Something to look forward to
I am not bored anymore
I am glad to see all of my friend again
Happy to finally be back
